Anyone searching for value-based living in the workplace
Classification: DDC:

Synopsis:

What are God's purposes for you at work? Should a Christian climb the corporate ladder? Are you ready for hostility in the marketplace? What if you face retrenchment? Should believers 'play politics'? Is it possible to be shrewd and innocent? How do you repurpose for retirement? How can the Church equip believers for the workplace?

The greater part of our waking hours and our productive years are spent at work. While many strive to find significance in the workplace, we often do not see how our faith and marketplace experiences can intersect. Darrel contributes vital insights from his unique perspective both as a professional in the marketplace and a lay minister in a local church. In this book, he shed light to this topic, addressing concerns of working professionals, preparing students for the marketplace and bringing Biblical principles to life through practical examples and real-life stories

Affiliation: Independent Author

List of Awards: NA

Marketing Notes: Based on Bible principles, based on real-life examples of believers (including that of the author's own experience) in the marketplace from Asia, Europe, and Americas. Author is a practitioner in the marketplace and serves in Christian ministry
